

A small place where a big one can be a little one again

The Age-Play Times

April 2008

<http://www.apt.idleplay.net>

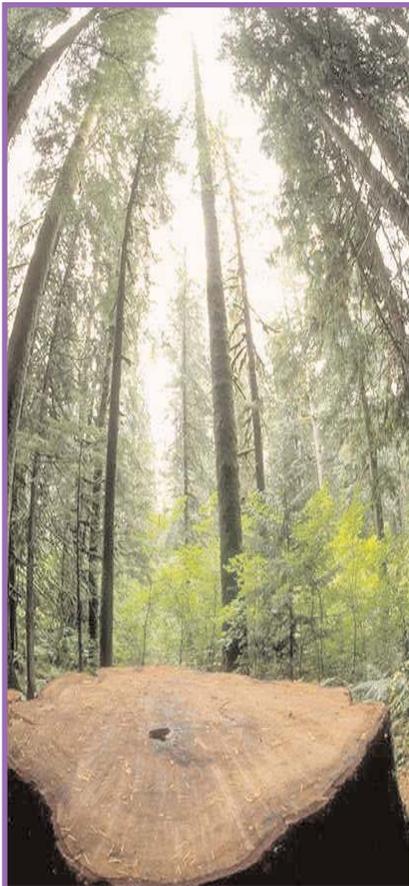

Issue 4

Spring is in the Air

By Mary Francen

The winter blues are passing us by and the flowers are now in bloom again, this time of the year is a great one for doing things with your little one. Many things can be incorporated into your play even while outside enjoying this wonderful fresh air.

A nature walk admiring the blooming trees, and flowers, incorporating a lesson on what each of them is, and pressing some wild flowers later at home into a telephone book and then looking up the horticulture names would make a great school assignment for kids of that age. for one.

The time spent with the grownup, plus the fun of running around picking them, and pressing them, is something that just about any age adult kid could do, the looking up the horticulture names of the flowers and presenting it along with the flowers in a report form is something that an older adult child could do.

Freshening up our homes and properties is something that we all have to do each year, but have you ever considered this to be an activity that your "little one" can help you with? Well why not, if you think about it, playing in the dirt is something that kids love to do so why not turn the yearly yard fix up into an Age-Play activity? Complete with a trip to the local garden center to pick out some new flowers of your favorite colors or just to look around at them with coming back later on for the final purchases perhaps when your "Big" is in control if your not with a grownup and wish to make sure that your selection is one that those who will seek to go back to the point where they become a real child and are diaper dependant.

The real problem is how do you break that training that you have learned on instinct since you were a real bio child? There are of course various tapes and audio programs that state they are can bring you to a state of hypnotism where you will be more open to suggestions such as reverting to someone who is totally diaper dependant. Do these things work? As I never have tried them personally I cannot say for sure. I can tell you that they are tuned to having certain types of tones and sounds

Sponsoring Sites	Pg. 2
Melting it altogether	Pg. 3
Easing the pain of the Dr's	Pg. 5
For the Love of MommaHawk	Pg. 6
Mommy Alters and their funtion	Pg. 7
Dressing the Part of the Child	Pg. 9
Punishment Corner	Pg. 11

"Breaking your own will to get back into diapers."

By Stephen Richard

Our bio parents at an early age worked on potty training where they taught us that we do not go in a diaper or our pants when we need to go to the bathroom but we go to the bathroom and use the toilet. This training along with the many years genetic coding that the bathroom is where we go at when we need to take care of the natural things of going pee and poop, can make it very hard for those who choose to wear diapers to actually use them.

There are those who just choose to wear diapers and never use them for the purpose they were designed for. And there are also those who will seek to go back to the point where they become a real child and are diaper dependant.

The real problem is how do you break that training that you have learned on instinct since you were a real bio child?

There are of course various tapes and audio programs that state they are can bring you to a state of hypnotism where you will be more open to suggestions such as reverting to someone who is totally diaper dependant. Do these things work? As I never have tried them personally I cannot say for sure. I can tell you that they are tuned to having certain types of tones and sounds

Continued on page 2

Continued on page 4

Springtime activities families can do for fun

Continued from 1

is going to complement your homes look and not just your "littles" sense of decor.

Washing the car this is something that everyone can have a lot of fun doing. While the weather might be a bit chilly for the full hosing off of the grownups just yet, there is nothing to say that a few tossed sponges full of soapy water can't be tossed at each other.

Spring is a time for renewal of both the things in nature and within ourselves, our bodies feel a sense of happiness and revitalization as we see the earth come alive again around us. So go out and find something in your everyday life that you can turn into a bit of fun.

Brought to you by our sponsors who without them we would not have our readers and our advertising

The Spanking Community
<http://www.spankingcommunity.com>

The Board of Education
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/board-of-education>

Daddy's Ranch
<http://daddydave.proboards75.com>

The Willows Cove Ageplay Community
<http://thewillows.smfforfree3.com/index.php>

Age Play Discussion
<http://www.ageroleplay.idleplay.net>

live it again
<http://liveitagain.proboards42.com/>

Mary's World
<http://www.marysworld.idleplay.net>

Kano's Story Corner
<http://Kanoea5.proboards100.com/>

Inner Kid
<http://www.innerkid.net>

The Dark Castle
<http://www.thedarkcastle.net>

The Play Palace of fun
<http://www.playpalace.idleplay.net>

The Age Play Times being an online News Paper is brought to you by various links from sites that show their support by mentioning us on their sites. We wish to recognize those sites that have asked to be sponsors for our News Paper. Their listings will show up each issue and are listed on our web site <http://www.apr.idleplay.net> We the staff of the APT thank them for all of their support. It is through their support and their links that the Age Play Times is distributed to all of its readers.

Melting it all together: Creating your Age role-play Persona

By Stephen Richard

In the continuing series of articles we have talked about having and keeping things going with real age and role-play, in other words living the lifestyle not just playing online.

Living the true life of an age or role-play child takes mixing a lot of different things in together.

You have to know how to manage your time, you have to know how to manage your resources, and you have to know how to be both a child and an adult when the time comes.

When this time comes, you to choose how you will handle your age play lifestyle. What parts work for you, what parts do not work for you, once you have this you can then say to yourself, ok how do I melt them into one age and role-play lifestyle?

One of the first known forms of age and role-play known to exist is playing lets pretend. So to remind you how this works we are going to do this little object lesson.

Let's pretend that you a potter, you know someone who makes pottery. So you have been given this really new tough order. This person wants this new pot made. They only have told you that they see the final product looking like. Now it is up to you to actually make this happen.

First you have to choose what type of clay you may need to use? You will need to know how it handles, if it needs to be very wet or very dry. You will need to know what tools you will need to work with this clay. You will need to know how long you have to work with this clay. You will need to know what is needed to fire the clay into a hard pot.

Now you have to start shaping this pot, you may try different techniques at first perhaps even having to scrap it and start again. But soon you get the pot going. You have just the right shape. Oh wait they wanted to have a couple of stripe bands. Ok now that is done. Oh they wanted a handle here. Oh and they wanted some color here. Ok now its time to fire it in the kiln.

Great now you have just created an age play pot. So now what are you going to do with the pot you have ordered for yourself?

What does this example really mean? It means that a good age and role-play life is not something you can be born into, it is something that you have had to work with to get created. You start off by taking a look at how your own mind sees yourself in this age play role, you then look around and find ways to make that role happen.

play life style in this way.

Your character will start to take on a life of its own; this is where you have to be extremely careful! When your age and role-play character starts to take on its own life it can be very easy for that part to actually take over your life. This as discussed in the previous articles can lead to many issues, however if you keep things in balance then your new age role-play character that you have created to live the life style.

What you choose to do with this new character you have created is totally up to you. You can explore a great many things and find what works for you. You can dive deeply into the waters of exploration, you can find that inner peace from a hard childhood, and you can find renewal of your spirit. You can see what it would have been like to have a total different outlook and experiences.

All of this is because you started the process to create your child.

This could be a very rewarding experience for you to look back on where you started at and where you are now. It is only limited by your desires to take it as far as you can. The sky is the limit in what you can experience. But you have to keep yourself safe. Do not think that just because you have been lucky so far that you can push yourself to do things that you are not ready to do.

Remember. Safe! Sane! Consensual!

Editor Mary Francen
Co Editor Stephen Richard
Writer/Photographer David Singleton
Writer Michael Parker
Writer Samantha Evens
Website: <http://www.apr.idleplay.net>
Email: ageplaytimes@comcast.net

Bambino Diapers make dreams come true

By Mary Francen

The Adult Diaper is one that is sought after by many Age-Players but they also are after the feel and look of the same kind of diaper that bio children use, one company that has come very close to this is Bambino offering both a plain white and also a printed version of a very thick and also absorbent all day/night diaper.

They now after being available on the internet in the US have a Canadian distributor as well. Creating your Desires by Louise will be offering these diapers and they hope to expand in the future to also offering other diapers in the future.

I myself have tried Bambino diapers and found them to be the best diapers I have ever used. They are comfortable, they don't leak, nor do they sag off, Their sizing is pretty accurate as well. The taping system works very well. And the feel of them was well incredible.

You are able to purchase them in lots of two for an average of seven fifty American dollars or lots of eight for an average of nineteen fifty average us dollars or an entire case of forty-eight for around eighty dollars us currency.

There is no wetness indicator on either set of diaper that you choose the plain white or the printed design. So you do get that complete feel of wearing an old fashioned disposable diaper.

You may find them at the following link <http://www.bambinodiapers.com/> you may also contact them via the US postal service by clicking on the contact us tab on their very user friendly menu located on the left-hand side of the webpage.

All of these items come shipped to you in very discreet ways with no markings stating what it is that your receiving and they are dedicated to serving their customers their company was formed because of the need for such a product. They also welcome your suggestions and you can leave them feedback and suggestions by visiting this link on their website. <http://www.bambinodiapers.com/contact.html>

Regressing and Diapers going back in time

Continued from page 1

that would bring you more to a state of maybe being open to the power of suggestive words. I have some files if someone wants to try them and let me know if you find them to be helpful.

Beyond such mental types of suggestions, there are other ways to get yourself more relaxed and able to actually let things happen into your diaper you are wearing. One of the more productive ones is to have a diaper on and sit in the bathroom on the toilet like you normally would just do not have the diaper off. That is a more of a natural surrounding in which one could do this with.

Other things that I have often heard of working is drinking a over abundance of water and refusing to go into the bathroom the pressure will build up and it could be possible for that to happen. Of course this is not without some discomfort to it.

There are of course the use of a catheter which goes straight into the bladder and bypass the parts of the body that keep that from happening, HOWEVER extreme caution needs to be noted for that because using this type of procedure can lead to infections and should not be performed without first talking to a doctor to follow all requirements.

For those who choose to go beyond just pee there are options for that as well, enemas, suppositories, bulk fiber drinks, eating oatmeal.

As previously mentioned there is the holding it until you just end up having an accident. This can be effective but can cause some discomfort before the final outcome.

Some people find that laying on their bed either on their tummy or even back can be relaxing enough for this to happen as well. Whatever the way that you find to work best for you would depend upon your level of desire to regress into diapers.

Some seek to go in their diaper without even thinking or having to force it. Just walking around and they wet or sitting on a chair and they wet, much like a real baby does. This type of diaper dependency can take a lot of work, time and patience with being shown toward you, but it can be done.

A couple of other methods that could work but may have more roots in old wives tales than anything else is the listening to running water, or the hand in warm water while sleeping.

There are no set guides for how to do these things, and I am sure there are maybe even more ideas then the ones I have mentioned thus far. Whatever the case maybe for you hopefully you have been able to find a method that works for your situation and your desire and needs.

<http://Kanoea5.proboards100.com/>

Kano's

Story
Corner

Fathers Day is coming up fast!

Get your special wishes into the Age-Play times you can submit them via [http://ageplaytimes.

idleplay.net](http://ageplaytimes.idleplay.net)

Doing the Grey punishments: Using Sexual punishments with your little ones. What it means how to do it.

By Stephen Richard

You are work, your little one is at home being naughty, you can't go home to deal with the punishment yourself and you know that having them do the spanking themselves just will not get the point across to them. But you know one thing for sure they do need a punishment.

So what punishment can you do? Well ever considered something that could be more a sexual thing by some but depending on how its done can be a very big punishment?

What do I mean by this? Well an anal plug put into their bottoms perhaps with some icyhot on it? Or even a vibrator or penis ring with icyhot on it? How about forced masturbation but not allowed to actually orgasm? How about clothes pin on nipples? Or what about having them put Icyhot on their nipples?

These are just some types of punishments that are more sexual nature but can be used in conjunction with age and role-play.

Sexual punishments can be a part of an age and role-play relationships where the partners are in agreement that such punishments are not out of the realm of being used.

Now granted there are going to be those who have some aversion to this type of punishment, this could perhaps go back to a childhood issue or some other trauma in their lives so always make sure that they are willing to do these types of punishments before you assign or assume that they are going to do them.

But if your partner is open to this type of punishment and you have both discussed the potential issues that could arise. Then there is no reason why these types of punishments could not be used.

If you wanted to add an extra bit of punishment to it you could even throw in a web cam or a phone call in which they had to this with you watching or listening.

If you have several types of plugs in regard to size and or shape you could use one that is a bit bigger than your normal play item. Of course adding the icyhot to the plug does bring a whole new side to things.

The same can said with a vibrator or penis ring and icy-hot, these type things would get the attention of your little one. The other types of punishments will also get their attention as well.

Of course these types of punishments are not limited to times when you aren't around your little one these things you can do at any time. There is no reason you cannot do them when you are home, or out of the house.

You know they do actually make remote control Vibrators and Anal plugs? Just think your little one is being naughty while at the store. And in your pocket you this little remote control and at a press of the button you can remind them that they can still be punished.

I am sure if you sit down with your little one right now and write out some punishments you can find some various punishments that would work just like the above.

So what is your list?

A wonderful idea to help ease the pain of the Doctors

By Mary Francen

Like a lot of people I share a fairly common fear, the doctors, I have a wonderful doctor whom has been my primary physician since I was seventeen. She is wonderful and knows my deepest secrets as well as my fear of doctors.

For Christmas this past year I received my very first video game, a Nintendo DS Lite pink of course, what other color would a lil girl at heart who loves purple and pink want?

Well as with bio kids, Adult kids who are given a new toy that they have dreamed of having for a long time, get just as obsessed with it when they first get it. I was no exception to this.

In the New Year I had a checkup one of many that I attend, and the girls in my doctors office all know me pretty well by know. I walked in, in my Tinkerbelle fleece jacket, Tinkerbelle pocket book, things that they have seen many times before, greeted everyone with my typical smile and new years greetings and sat down to wait my turn to be called in, pulled out my new toy and started to play with it, not even thinking anything about it. After all it was Tetris, and I love that game.

Now I should explain to you all that my doctors office is a group of doctors, and on one side of the large waiting room is for the adults, and the other side separated by a half wall, a small space and than another half wall is the children's doctors. When you first walk throe the large double doors you are standing in the small space between the two half walls and standing in front of the reception desk.

While you are separate from the children's section you can hear everything that goes on over their and vice versa. So as I sat down in my proper area, and started to play with my game amongst the other adults that were all there for various colds and checkups, their were a few who were raising an eyebrow at the lady playing with a hand held video game. I should mention at this point that it wasn't making any noise you are able to actually shut off the noise on it. However several of them actually commented to me that day and on the several other visits that I have since brought the game with me that it was an excellent way to pass the time.

In fact before I had known it I was "caught" by one of the nurses who was calling me in, who's son has one of the games and knew what I had been playing before I could put it away, she thought it was "cute funny" that here I was playing with it. However my reply to her was "Hey it keeps me from getting all jumpy sitting here" as I smiled at her.

As I sat in the little room for Dr. A and again continued to

Continued on page 8

For the Love of MommaHawk

By Stephen Richard

She sits beside the nest. Sleeping it would appear, but her eyes are wide open, watching, and waiting.

Unnoticed to all is what she guards under her wings...her little ones...her hatchlings. Her babies. They are loved, protected, comforted, feed, taught, guided, controlled their limits, even chastised if needed. She loves them with all her might they are here babies. Hers and hers alone.

She gave them their birth no one else did. No one else fed them but her. No one protected them but her. No one gave them shelter from the weather but her. No one taught them the things they needed to know but her. No one guided them in the ways of life but her. No one comforted them in sad or scary times but her. No one set limits for them but her. No one enforced those limits but her. No one had the right to chastise them but her. They were hers and hers alone to do with as she sought and pleased.

When a predator would come close...she would put them a safe distance away and bear her claws and sharp hawk nosed beak and go to fight away the predator. She would drive it away with quickness and sometimes finality.

Speed, cunning, grace, finesse, daring, valor, are her tools to victory to use and use them she does. No hatchling has ever been lost to a predator, she has protected them all. No foe to big or to small, will scare her, if her babies are in danger she will fight for them, perhaps even fight to her own death.

Mama demands and expects things from her babies, but these things are really for their own good, even if they can't see that at the time. But she does it for love. For love her babies she does so much. Nothing can harm her really save the one thing. Harm coming to her babies for she loves them so...her rules are simple

1. NO lying
2. Bring harm to no one, INCLUDING yourself
3. Obey me without question

These are the main three obey them you must or suffer the punishments for breaking them. Punishments always befit the misdeed, no punishment ever giving in anger or intent to hurt or abuse. But always with love before, during and after.

She knows you don't like her punishments but once she makes up her mind no changing it. You await nervously until she calls you to her side. You are fast because you know she hates to wait. Often times she has said..."The longer I wait the more gets added to the second part" You see mama always punishes in two parts. Do not ask which is the harder for both can be painful in different ways.

The first is the rebuking lecture. The misdeed is said and questions ask and answers. She will tell you why you must not do that for it can hurt you. You know she is right because she is the mama who knows so much. Your eyes are starting to show tears. You know you let her down and that part hurts. After the lecture comes the part that is the worst but actually you feel and know you need this part.

Mama will take you by the hand and pull you over her strong knees. The same knees that you sit on while cuddling and that she bounces you when she show you how much she does love you. Now because the knees you are bent over.

Next she removes the covers on your bottom. Mama is a sound believer in bare bottom to help enforce the lessons to be learned. A few final words are given before she starts.

Her choice of what will be used befits the misdeed...sometimes hand, sometimes paddle, sometimes hairbrush. It all hurts in its own ways. The punishment is not brutal by any standards though you do feel it and it hurts and brings tears to yours. Deep inside there is an almost release of things that comes with the tears.

Before you know it, she is done. She stands you up then covers your bottom. Then to show you she forgives you and still loves you she will gather you into her arms of love and hold you close. Rocking, and humming. Doing all the things that a mother will do to comfort and hurting and crying child.

She will let you stay as long as you want sometimes. Other times it's a short stay but she will tell you she does love and she always will. A kiss on the forehead or cheek or maybe even your nose will tell you she does.

Then you tell her you love her and you are sorry and you will do better. She knows you will do better mama's always know these things.

Then up you go off her lap. Sometimes sent to the corner to think, sometimes to your room to think, sometimes to the couch, sometimes back to play but with a warning to be good. You know she loves you...she's your mama.

Then at nighttime she will gather you in her arms once more. Rocking you till you already for bed. Then tucked in all nice and safe and warm. A kiss goodnight and an I love you my baby she will say. You kiss her back and tell her you love her also. Then the lights go off and the door shut. You don't dare get out unless you want her to chase you back, sometimes with a swat to remind you MAMA said stay in bed.

You drift off to sleep, knowing your safe and loved. Safe because MamaHawk loves you and is on Guard at your door. Watching with ready eyes and Claws.

I love you mama

Love your baby boy

Inner Kid

<http://www.innerkid.net>

Mommy knows best. How a mommy in ageplay works

By Mary Francen

Mother's day is coming up and with it brings many things to the surface for some.

For me it brings up a lot of feelings that part of me doesn't want to even deal with and I haven't dealt with since I was 13.

Part of my own needs for joining the age-play community have come from the loss of my mom when I was so young. A sick parent for most of a child's life may lead them to a yearning for that relationship bond as an adult.

Because my own mom was very ill for most of my life and because of other issues going on within my own life, I do not have many memories of her, and this caused me to have a need to be close to my dad and later on in life a need for a Daddy and Uncle.

After she passed on, I was unable to ever think of "replacing" the memory of my mom with anyone else, even if that memory was a false one of a person that I never really knew in all honesty.

A child tends to see a parent in a light that is much like that of a hero worship. And if they lose said parent during those early years of development whether it be the physical development or the emotional developmental stages, they won't lose that image of said parent. Age is not always a factor when figuring in the developmental stages of bio kids nor obviously in the AP world.

A Mommy role in the age-play world can help to fulfill that void that the adult child lost during those important years of his or her life.

A mommy tends to be a friend, a mentor a teacher and also the one a child runs to first when they are sick, hurt, sad. So it is only natural that many people will want to grasp that especially if they did not have this as a bio child.

A Mommy tends to also be a little lighter then a Daddy, most people if you were to ask them about their parents will say, oh my mom was the one that I told my secrets to. My Dad was the one who my mom told them to.

They will also continue to tell you that it was their Dad that they knew would punish more frequently and with a bit more harshness then their mom.

This would typically be because Mommy's spend more time with their babies and are thought of in their eyes anyway as being "always their little babies" no matter what their age is. This is not to say they wouldn't punish you for misbehavior. Just that Dad seems to get the shorter ended stick when it comes to the softness or emotional "softness cuddliness" factor.

This is only of course one of the many reasons that people have Mommy's within the AP community.

It is also one of the reasons that people don't have a Mommy but rather a Daddy or Uncle, as in my case, I went the route of needing a Daddy and Uncle.

Mommy Alters and their functions

By Samantha Evens

What is a Mommy Alter you may be asking yourself as you read this headline, well let me explain in as simple a term as I can, My name is Samantha Evens however my body's name is Mary Francen.

No I am not a pen name of hers, I am a separate individual within her, I am an adult, and within her there are several children. Many of whom call me Mommy. Not all do mind you but there are a few that do.

I did not always have this function, I used to be a reporter or more importantly so that you would understand it better, I assisted my body in her daily tasks in her capacities of her job in the journalism field.

To go from being a reporter to being Mommy was not an easy adjustment for me to make, it was full of area's that I had nothing to base my feelings on, and being a reporter you need facts to back up your feelings.

Being a Mommy whether it be to Alters or body children is a job that is twenty four hours a day seven days a week and with no paycheck at the end of the week. Your payroll comes in the form of the child in question looking at you and saying something sweet or giving you a hug or making you a picture or any of the numerous things that children do each and every day.

There are no differences in the joys of being an Alter Mommy then a body Mommy; I experience the same things that body Mommy's do as well as the unpleasant tasks such as the sick or scared child and the naughty child as well.

My daughters Rachael, Cynthia, and Terri are all very young and very sweet girls who get into plenty of mischief, but the joy of being a Mommy comes from being to teach them to spell and to speak better and to do things that they did not know how to do until they became my daughters.

I would imagine that would be the same for all Mommies', those simple joys that always seem to overshadow the sleepless nights. To see the wonderful individual qualities start to bloom within each of my daughters brings a feeling of pride and a sense of accomplishment that I never had in my previous job.

The flip side of that coin is the protectiveness that I feel for my daughters; even though there are many others within my body my daughters always come first in my mind. They are mine, pure and simple fact.

Even if they have done something bad, they are still my daughters, I am the one they

Continued on page 8

A Medical need for diapers in Age/role-play

By Stephen Richard

There are many out there because of medical needs are required to wear diapers. This could be because of an accident or an illness. For whatever the reason their body does lack the control that is needed. So they have to wear diapers.

Many have turned what could be a very embarrassing problem into a way to have age and role-play as part of their lives. This may start out by them trying to search for help and support groups for adults who have to wear diapers. In the process finding an age and role-play site that talks about wearing diapers as part of the age and role-play.

They learn that there are those who will use their medical need of diapers to return to a time in their life where they felt safe. There are also those who were in age and role-play before and due to some medical problem they find themselves dependant on diapers.

While for some this is dream come true where they can use diapers without forcing it there are always those who have many horror stories to tell about said accidents happening. And it generally happens in the worst way at the worst time. And there is nothing you can do about it.

Kidney infections, bladder infections, bowel infections and many other things can lead to the short time or in some cases permanent loss of control. This does not even take into account those who have suffered from physical damage to kidneys, bladders, or bowels due to injury.

Many of these people live in secret because they feel so helpless that they cannot control themselves. There are some who have turned it into an age play lifestyle.

Whatever the case may be. For those who have to deal with the daily issues that this brings it can be both a sense of elation to be a carefree child who does not have to worry about going running to the bathroom and a great trial of pain an adult who must change their whole life style to try and cope with the issues that cause their bodies to have this type of failure of its systems.

There are even those who even though those body parts such as kidneys and bladder and bowels may still be in perfect working order, they have still lost control over them, this could be to any number of neurological disorders. This could be damage to the brain itself or damage to the nerves that control those functions.

For those who live with this, there is a great deal of embar-

Continued on page 10

Helping to ease the pain of a stressful situation

Continued from page 5

play I didn't even notice the time passing, the fact that I was in this tiny room. "Something I hate normally" or Dr. A open the room door. Again I was caught red handed. Dr. A giggled as she often does at one of my latest things. Like I said she knows all my secrets, with the exception of being an Age-Player. Although I am having my suspicions that she at least has some kind of an idea on that one as well.

As the year has gone on and several more appointments have come and gone, I have noticed that even when I hear bio kids being very upset about getting shots "something that is very upsetting to me I hate hearing kids crying it makes me very jumpy" or I have had to come in for my own "vamping i.e. blood work" the DS has helped to keep me a lot calmer while in the waiting room and has even helped to keep my blood pressure a bit lower each time that the nurses have taken it.

So could it be that taking a bit of my AP world with me to the doctors has actually been beneficial? Aside from the getting a "good girl treat" if I am a good girl at the doctors that is? I have spoken to someone else about this very topic and she too brings something with her to her doctor's appointments and her doctor was the one who noticed that her blood pressure was lower when she did bring that item with her.

If only I had thought of bringing a game with me to the doctors years ago. Perhaps this should be put into the worlds medical journals. But at the very least put into the world's adult lil girl and boy encyclopedias.

The Mommy Inside

Continued from page 7

deal with, and no one will bring harm upon them I am the one you deal with not them. You do not scare them, you do not threaten them, and you do not do anything to them. You come to me and I will handle it.

Again I would have to imagine that this is the same for all Mother's at least it ought to be, a child is a precious gift to be cherished and loved, protected and guided. They do not know the ways of the world yet that is a Mommy's job to teach them all of those things.

Dressing the part of the child at bedtime

By Mary Francen

Most of my wardrobe is of the normal cloths that you would see a 34 year old women wearing, however I am drawn instinctually to the cuter things in every clothing store I go into and will buy anything in Tinkerbelle that I see in my size if I am allowed to. One of the things that I have wanted was a couple cute outfits that were most defiantly little baby girl cloths no other way to confuse it with adult clothing.

These things of course are not sold at your local Wal-Mart or Target store. "Much to many age-players chagrin." So I brought my search to the internet and for many years I looked at pictures on websites of lil girls and boys dressed in fancy dresses and things and though aren't they cute but that's not exactly what I wanted even though they were cute.

What I sought were cloths that more realistic looking to the normal everyday cloths that a child would wear, and especially an outfit that a child would be put to bed in.

Photo by Mary Francen

For some who have waited eyars to find an outfit or outfits such as the one pictured above MsLorraine provides quality, and comfort that brings smiles for years of fun and fashion to the adult babies around the world.

While doing my favorite searches on Ebay.com I came across this eBay store <http://stores.ebay.com/Kastle->

Kink

The owner is a very lovely lady and her work is extremely realistic to what toddlers and babies are currently wearing!

The outfit that she made for me is a baby girls sleeper type shirt and diaper cover one that could be used to both play in as my youngest of play age or to be as a sleeper. I was so excited when the package arrived made to my exact measurements and with a pretty pink ribbon tied around it, that I forgot to take a picture before opening it and trying it on.

The outfit perfectly, and is extremely comfy and soft the shirt has Tinkerbelle my favorite of the children's characters all over it with snaps along the top left shoulder just as a babies shirt would have on them.

The bottoms have pretty Tinkerbelle embroidery on them and a snap closure and fully elasticized waist and legs for complete comfort.

Her prices and customer service are wonderful, and came complete with hugs the outfit including shipping was 50.00 dollars us currency and has become one of my most favorite things to wear to bed.

Old world craftsmanship, made for old world uses

By Mary Francen

This review happened because while on vacation my original "Misr Spoon" was left behind in a cabinet and yes it was an accident, even though that does sound like a likely story. I was greatly upset by losing it as it was an antique.

So my search for a replacement began where the last search started Ebay.com I wanted the same thing as I had before, secretly I hoped that someone found "Misr Spoon" and would put him up for sale, but sadly that was not to be, so for months I searched listing after listing almost giving up on the entire idea.

There is a very big difference between the wooden spoons purchased from any cooking store and the one that I had before, getting a spanking from Misr Spoon, I felt it for a long time afterwards, getting a spanking from one of the many others in our collection, it wore off very shortly afterwards.

Their was also the knowing that Misr Spoon had a long history and you could tell just looking at him that he had never once stirred a pot of gravy. But that he had warmed many a naughty little girls bottoms.

The original Misr Spoon had heft and weight to his handle and the ladle, he was carved and not perfectly straight, just like the bottom that he would be used on, he was not perfect. This appealed to me as well, on a level that I can't truly explain.

Well I explained my dilemma to Uncle Stephen about two weeks ago, and suddenly on an IM I received a link from him, without any notice and when I went to it, I saw "Misr Spoon" hand carved sturdy handle not old but brand new made from trees on the mans own land, out of his love of carving and marked with a fish his symbol because of his love of fishing.

The spoon called to me just as the original Misr Spoon had, the way it was made, out of love, also not perfect, just like the person it would be used to help guide in life. In the mans email to me, he told me to enjoy and to have fun. Did he know my intentions for Misr Spoon I will not know for he doesn't know of this product review.

He makes as a business many rustic furniture pieces and kitchen utensils, in several kinds of wood all from his own land up in the mountains.

When Misr Spoon arrived, I was given a "breaking him in spanking" and wow! Did he hurt! Just as much if not more then the original Misr Spoon ever did. He packs a loud crack, and an immediate sting that builds with each and every swat.

Continued on page 10

Old world uses, and one word..OUCH!

Continued from page 9

Being made out of Cyprus wood and covered with a bees wax for protection the wood is very pretty with spots and reminds me of a tiger's strips each time I look at it. The handle also has a very pretty brown leather suede handle tie to it for hanging if you wish. The business end has a flattened area that goes to beveled sides with not one area that isn't smoothed out completely.

The measurements are as follows 16 inches long from end of handle to end of bowl, the bowl of the spoon is 2.75 inches by 4.5" long and a half an inch deep.

In order to properly right this review I felt it only fair to give myself a spanking with Misr Spoon, this is not a punishment spanking just mainly a spanking done in the various ways that a spanking might be done by our readers to give them the most amount of information that they would need to get a sense of how Misr Spoon works and how a spankee would respond to him.

For my spanking I am wearing a thin pair of panties, and a pair of dress pants. I started my spanking out over my pants and panties standing up using my right arm, yes Misr Spoon is long enough for you to spank yourself in this position and get a good swat without spraining your shoulder.

I gave myself fifty swats on each side of my bottom for a total of one hundred swats. For those who do spankings over the cloths, the spanking did bring my bottom to a heated state and I was wiggling around a bit. I was not in any trouble so I did not have the guilty feelings that I usually have when I am getting spanked and thus I did not cry but I was feeling those swats pretty good by the end of that spanking.

Photo by Mary Francen

Note the hand chisled spoon bowl and hand burned fish logo on the handle this is an impressive work of oldworld craftsmanship and quit beautiful.

For the next spanking I lowered my pants only and bent over still standing up, I was able to spank myself this way as well though it was a bit more difficult to get as good a swing as I had in the straight standing up position.

For this spanking I gave myself fifty swats in total twenty five on each side of my bottom "lets remember I was not in trouble here... sorry folks but I do want to sit down to finish the apt." These swats were felt more then the previous spanking even though I am wearing very thin pants and I yelled with them especially towards the end of the spanking.

The last spanking I gave myself, while having second thoughts about doing this review in the first place I might add, completely bare bottomed and bent over completely not just leaning forward as I had done in the second spanking.

This spanking caused me the most discomfort of the three spankings and I Owed through the entire grand total of fifty spans, as well as hopped around as much as I could. It was also very difficult to get as much of a swing as I could in the previous two spankings so to make it fair I repeated the other positions while bare bottomed before finishing the fifty spanks.

As I sit here typing this review my bottom is still feeling those review test spankings very much so and they happened about forty-five minutes ago now. My bottom is quite red and sore to both the touch movement.

I would have to say that if you are going to do a self spanking with Misr Spoon that the best ways I have found to do it in are either one, lay on the bed sideways as I did for the "welcome home spanking" or stand straight up as you can get a snap with your wrist it doesn't take much more movement then a snap of your wrist to get a good swat with him. A spanking given by someone else would have me crying very easily after just a few spanks.

You can find this fine piece of craftsmanship on Ebay along with many others in woods such as Walnut etc. by going to http://search.ebay.com/_W0Q QfgtpZ1QQfrppZ25QQsassZfishingfool90

Finding a happy medium to a not so happy problem for some

Continued from page 8

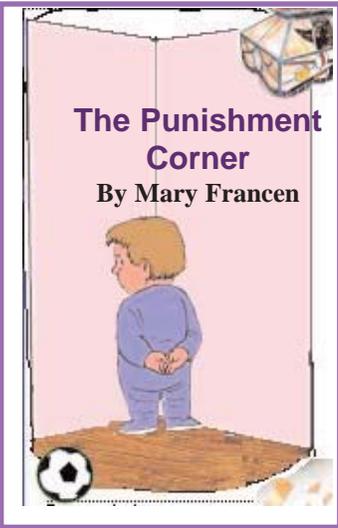

rassment that goes with it. Having accidents in public where people could tell, having to always have things needed to change yourself with you. What happens if you leak? What if people see you changing yourself? Finding a place where you clean yourself up. Not being able to go certain places, and do certain things for fear that your secret will come out in the wrong ways.

Of course aside from the medical downsides, there are many who have this problem who do enjoy very active lives, so it is something that can be done.

And many of them have mixed age play right into it and live as happy active little boys and girls who wear diapers. And they couldn't be happier.

ohh ohh nooo pleasee not the evil hair-brush tooo pleaseee ill be a good girl!

This issue of the APT is our Mothers Day issue and the one punishment that I can think of that seems to be standard with Mommy's is a spanking with her hairbrush. So that's the punishment that I am going to talk about in this issue of the Punishment Corner.

What is it that brings the sudden realization that you have crossed some invisible line in your naughtiness that takes a spanking up a level when your Mommy grabs her dreaded hairbrush off of her dresser or off of her dressing table?

Mommies seem to have a sixth sense about knowing the differences between exactly what kind of spanking you need even if you did something naughty just once that day. Perhaps its that "Mommy sense" that a Mother has with a child, that tells them that you need to be taken across their knee for a hand spanking and then given a some spanks with her hairbrush for you to learn the lesson of "fill in the blank with what ever naughty thing you might have done here"

They seem to at least in what I have noticed favor those hairbrushes, tapping their foot with just a look that tells you, your going to not be sitting for a while young lady by the time I get done with your naughty little bottom now march. It seems to be an unspoken language along with the knowing that even though you're in another room of the house they seem to just know that you have been up to something naughty!

You hear the dreaded words... Mary-Elizabeth... You get your bottom in here this instant... Caught red handed and not even in person, they are still in the other room while your holding said crayon in yours. Your to busy wondering how did she know I was making a picture on the wall? What did I do? You can tell by the tone of her voice she isn't happy with you, grownups all get that tone to their voices when your in trouble, a feeling in your tummy tells you that your going to get a spanking, the only question now is it going to be with her hand or her hair-brush? As you walk out of the playroom do you remember to drop the crayon?

As you come into the room she is in and find her standing their looking down at you with that not happy Mommy look on her face, the one that she gets that tells you that you're in trouble, your hands fly to your bottom as you spit out I didn't do nothing Mommyyy in a whine. She already knows that you have in fact done something just by your stance a Mommy always does, a Mommy can read you like the cover of a book. It's the bond that she has with her child, that and the crayon you dropped as your hands flew to your bottom.

What does the spanking over Mommy's lap after she takes you back to the playroom to find your crayon drawn flowers on the wall bring you? A spanking from Mommy over her lap with her hand and then her hairbrush because you fibbed to her and told her you did nothing wrong, brings you of course to crying loudly, but it also brings you closer to her, a bonding experience between mother and child a special communication one that lets the child know that Mommy is always their to help you to grow up and know that she is always going to teach you right from wrong even if you did draw the flowers for her and she does think that they are very pretty, they weren't drawn in the correct place.

She is also going to teach you that it is never a good idea to fib to Mommy or anyone else a fib is a very naughty thing and it will always get you a spanking with Mommy's hairbrush as she gives you the remainder of your spanking with her evil hairbrush.

The thing about Mommy's is that they are girls too and they are just as sentimental as their offspring are. Even little boys are sentimental towards their Mommy's after your spanking and the love and cuddles are over and you are smiling again, Mommy may even go and get a special tape and with your help mark off the area that your flowers are so that they never get painted over, placing them in their own frame for all eternity and all to see.

So while Mommy's evil hairbrush is a punishment to be feared because she uses it when you have done a pretty big naughty, she is also doing it out of love just as any grownup does.

But in this lil girls mind ya can still ask, beg plead and try to bargain with her not to spank your naughty bottom with it, I just don't think it will work to much it never really has for me.

The Editors Debate

Point Counter point #3

Topic for this issue: Making your little one wear a diaper as a punishment.

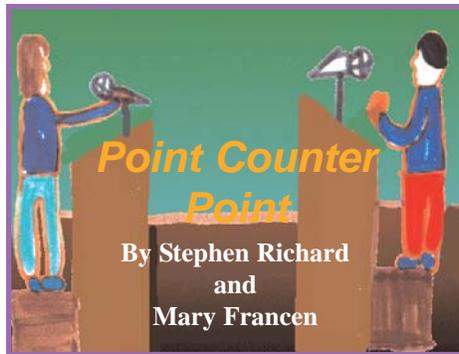

Many of us as adults have heard it said to us by our parents, "act your age are you a baby" This being said there are times when a toddler or a older child is not acting like that age but are acting younger. And I am not even talking about having a bedwetting accident. I am talking about when the child is acting like a baby would. You know what I mean, right? When your child is having a tantrum kicking and crying and being totally fussy, not wanting to help you get them dressed, basically reverting back to a baby. So if they are going to act like it. Well I say treat them like one. Put a diaper on them.

Mary: I don't see anything wrong this punishment being done to an adult child, even though the words to me are degrading. As sometimes even toddlers are feeling overwhelmed with their own world and yes fussy and unable to communicate that to their caregivers. Sometimes being shown that its ok to be shown that total care that one receives as a baby is a good thing. I do also think that the adult child maybe seeking that attention from their caregiver even if they are not consciously aware of it.

Uncle Stephen: Well when you aren't even a toddler and you are not acting your age that same punishment could be used. Nothing says a 7 8 or 9 year old couldn't have this type of punishment then again nothing says a teenager who is not acting the age should not have this same punishment done.

Sometimes its not just the wearing that is needed, there can be more than is needed. Wearing the clothes, the pacifier, the bottle, and even using the diapers. Having your diaper changed by the adult in your life can remind you that you need to act certain ways and that you need to not act in certain ways.

Mary: Ok I see the point about using the diaper, I mean why else have it on, other then to use it. However what things do you mean when you say need to not act in certain ways or act in certain ways? And how do you get past those barriers of a older child's independence without crushing that by using this form of punishment on them?

The 7 8 or 9 year old range was the age range where a child "might" be push to be treated a manner that they were once were especially if they have a younger sibling in the home. Even if it's a subconscious "push", but the teen years, hmm I am just not sure that you could honestly get away with that one.

Uncle Stephen: We aren't talking about a real teen or real child however we are talking about an age play child or teen so it's not as hard to be done. With any punishment there can be and generally will be some type of humiliation factor that goes into it. Having to have your bottom bared for a spanking. Having to stand in a corner bare bottomed.

Each of those punishments does have some factor of humiliation. However it is also the power control factor that goes into this as well. The Adult child or Adult teen have willingly gave the person doing this to them their overall consent to do different things with them.

Having your grown up walking into your room with a diaper, pacifier, and any other type of baby clothes or items is going to get your attention one way or the other. The humiliation of having them strip you down and put a diaper on you, then a pacifier in your mouth, and dress you in the clothes that a baby would have to wear is going to be part of the punishment.

As with doing any type of animal training, you have to break the will of the child or teenager without breaking the spirit of the child. Diapers can be this if done in the right way.

Mary: Well of course we aren't talking about bio kids, I just don't see even the adult teen or adult 7 8 or 9 year old willingly granting permission to be treated as a "baby" as often those things or that term, signifies something bad, even though in reality there is nothing wrong with being "babied" by your grownup.

It can in fact have a very healing, calming and loving factor to it that can add something to any dynamic, that total and unconditional love that babies are given being shown to you is something that is just wonderful, so I am wondering how this part of the feelings that go with that translates to punishment?

Yes every punishment has its "embarrassment" factor, and especially as we are all adults, that factor can be magnified because when we were bio kids that factor was lessened some, especially if we were younger children at the time of said bottomed bare bearing. And yes seeing your grownup walk into your room with a diaper and other needed babyish items would make an adult teen or pre-teen blush I am sure very crimson red so I will grant that part of the diapering punishment as being pure punishment, however I still have to wonder about the "pure love" as I call it when a bio parent is with a bio baby it is the same thing with adult babies and their grownups on the emotional side anyway so how is this a punishment to older adult children when they are being babied?

Uncle Stephen: Since when does any child willing accept a punishment? Otherwise why even have any type of punishment to start with? Spankings, time outs and groundings are not meant to be fun punishments unless you have that type of relationship. But in a general age and role-play relationship one does not want a punishment to happen. But that is not their choice as they gave up that power to the adult in their life.

Yes it can be very calming and nurturing if you take it as such, but if you do not you can see it as a punishment.

The Editors Debate

Continued from page 12

As you said it goes against the nature of what we, as adults have been ingrained to do. And that is when you are older you do not need to wear and use diapers that is what the bathroom is for, but in this case the grownup has taken that way. They have removed that ingrained nature of going to the bathroom. They have reduced you from your teenager or pre-teen status and rights that you assume you would have to that of an infant who has not gained the control needed.

Mary: I agree that it is nurturing if the participants take it that way, and I also agree that it is punishment pure and simple for some. So now tell me and our readers what do you do for those its both? I have been on the receiving end of this punishment from both you and Daddy, and at the time I did not like and yet liked it, it was fun until I realized gee wait a second. As you stated I have lost all the rights and privileges that go along with being older. Having to ask you and him for everything is nice and it's comforting but when it comes to wanting to stay up to watch that TV movie or go to the mall to get something and you can't because its past bedtime. Then well its no longer so comforting, so I ask you what do you say then when its both punishment and not punishment at the same time?

Uncle Stephen: What say I about this you ask? I say it depends on how it is presented, yes there are times it can be both a nice thing and a punishment. Then again so can many other things that can be felt the same ways. If you present it as more a punishment then your terms and your actions will be as such. There will not be the more comforting side of things. If your terms and actions are more toward the comfort side then that is how the child will take it.

So do I need to get the diapers out and remind you to act your age?

Mary: Bite me... :P and even so are you talking about always being a "big meanie poo poo head" during the entire time-out punishment? That's a pretty long time at some points? I mean dang the one time you and Daddy had me on it was for a Month??? Are you saying that your actions and presentations would be such as to not be comforting for an entire month??? That's not very nice of you and how could you be that way towards the adult child you loved for an entire month straight at all times?

Uncle Stephen: I did not say that my whole attitude would not be comforting just that my words and actions about the punishment part of it would not be. Would I not cuddle? Yes I would cuddle. Would I not tuck you into bed? Yes I would tuck you into bed. Would I not rock you if you were scared? Yes I would rock you if you were scared.

That goes without saying. However, am I am going to change your diaper right away? No Am I going to let you stay that way for a bit longer. Am I going to remind you that you are being punished when I change your diaper? Yes Am I going to do that as well. Am I going to remind you to act your age not the baby you were acting? Yes I am going to do that as well.

You get treated the way you have been acting.

So again I will ask do I need to remind you to act your age?

Mary: :P:P:P and just what age is that huh buster? And how do you remind a adult child to act their age when your changing their diaper? And even afterwards, that does seem to be contradictory in terms hmm doesn't it? And if memory serves me correctly that time period that I had that punishment, yes you did not let me get changed straight off, and yes I was spanked as reminders to be a good girl, but I still have to ask you how do you go about not being "nice Uncle Stephen" while punishing especially if said punishment is treating me as a baby what if I wanted to just be rocked without being scared? This goes along with the part of that punishment that feels nurturing to me, even part of it feels completely punishment. What then hmm?? :P

Uncle Stephen: Well in your case that would be 3, so do you need a diaper put on you? As for reminding them about their age while changing their diapers you simply tell them you know you are such and such age I shouldn't need to be doing this if you were acting your age. With afterward, if they ask to do something that they should normally be able to do you would tell them no since they aren't acting their age. You could even remind them they are in a diaper by giving the diaper a pat so they could feel and hear the sounds of the diaper being on them.

A teenager may rarely want to be rocked normally, as for a child yes one can hug and rock them but that does not mean they could not be reminded about the diaper by the simple act of patting the diapered bottom. You know what that feels like remember?

This type of punishment is only one that works on those who do not find such things to be part of their age play and something they want to happen. Perhaps in that case the best option is not to give them what they want. So maybe I shouldn't put a diaper on you after all right?

Mary: Like I said for me it is a two sided thing, There are times I completely enjoy being "babied" but as with any punishment that I am given, it is the emotional side to it that is the most effective. And yes as a 3 year old I do sometimes need a diaper,

The disappointing the grownup in charge is the part of any punishment that connects with me the most and even something that is normally very comforting for me, such as being put into a diaper and snuggled by you or Daddy or Uncle can be upsetting especially if the choice to be a big girl and use the big girl potty is taken away from me.

So yes I would have to concede to you that this punishment is in fact a very useful one especially on a sensitive adult child. Because not only will they feel the physical "reminders" but they will also feel the emotional ones.

Inner Kid

<http://www.innerkid.net>

Easter Eggs and Fun with the Daddies

By David Singleton

Greetings all, this year is going fast. This Easter time was a lot of fun. We had a egg coloring party at our house. My little one made breakfast for a few of our friends. She made sausage gray with biscuits.

Then we colored 5 dozen eggs with our friends Victoria Rose, Steven and his daughter, Mary and her daddy. We each had 1 dozen eggs to do. We had a lot of fun doing that and we will do it again next year.

On Easter after I got home from work, I hid our eggs and my little one found all the eggs with not too much trouble. We then went to her sister's house for dinner and fun, where another easter egg hunt took place and yes my little one wanted to take part in that one as well.

Photo by Dorothy Rose
My first picture with the Easter Bunny, taken after a professional one with my little friend who took off and her mom captured this shot before I could get up.

Avoiding the Online Stranger Dangers

By Mary Francen

Many of us meet friends and "family members" online, and for a lot of us those relationships are very rewarding, while they do not always workout they can be extremely satisfying and that is the draw to being online.

The Internet and chat rooms, forums etc. allow many people to fulfill their Age-Play needs while still living their normal "vanilla" lives in complete anonymity.

This is where the problems can arise; we do not truly know whom it is that we are chatting with in those various places. We only have our gut instincts and their word to go on.

Yes we all want to believe that the written words we read are true when the person typing them to us does so, but we have to keep in mind that it may not be the case in every situation.

Just recently I came upon a case were not only were a persons words not correct, but were dangerous because this individual turned out to be under the legal age for the country that I live in. while this person was only under the legal age by about six months, it was still illegal for them to be where they were chatting to me at.

Many people just entering into the Age-Play world are young, and they do not see the dangers of what they are doing, this person could not and would not see that what they were doing was harmful to those around them. Putting new meaning to the term "jail bait" just speaking to this person could cause in some states for people to go to jail and this individual did not care. "But you didn't go to jail so what does it matter?" was their response to being confronted with the fact that they broke the rules and put everyone else at risk.

Their key point was "well will you see my point, I have waited for many years to be 18 to do this and I am only six months away from that so who cares?" Well the authorities do care and the people who run the place where you were at do care, and who are we to know or believe you when you state that your parents consent to you being there?

The Internet can be a very rewarding place, but it also can be a place filled with dangerous things, and people this person mentioned above showed a complete lack of moral character for her "so called friends" in their actions she had bonded with people on that site before being "found out" and even once it was found out lied to the faces of said friends.

So how do site owners protect themselves and their memberships from dangers such as this? Well the simple fact is that you honestly can't unless your site is a pay site, and lets face it not to many people want to spend what little money they have extra each month on pay sites, especially since they are usually associated with pornography sites.

The only thing site owners can do is to have clear-cut rules and to follow them very strictly, no matter how long said member has been there. If it's found out their IP address gets banned so that they may not gain access through a new name.

Having an agreement that every member must sign and acknowledge before being allowed access to posting on your site is the only way a free site can actively protect itself on the beforehand in this kind of situation. Because lets face it anyone can steal their parent's credit card to punch in a number and not to many actually check their statements and there are a lot of kids who actually have their own credit cards these days. So by having everyone sign the agreement stating that they are over the age of 18 you are getting them to state that they know that the site is for those over the legal age in the site owners area. It then at least gives you some protection. Short of asking people to send in a digital copy of their State, county, government issued ID. A server owner and those who maintain the site can only go by the value of a person's word.